Dodge City, Kansas. Wild Texas cowboys driving cattle to Dodge made the town famous in the 1870s and the story continues today at venues like Boot Hill Museum. Early residents, including saloon owner and Dodge City Cowboy Band leader Chalkley Beeson, donated many of the thousands of artifacts and photos in its collection. Beeson's Long Branch Saloon, which burned in 1885, was reopened in 1947. The town that bears his name, framed by the magnificent Sierra Nevada and White Mountains, is among the most beautiful places in the state, an outdoor lover's paradise. Every Memorial Day, the so-called Mule Capital of the World hosts its Mule Days Celebration to honor the role that pack stock played on the frontier.
