The Cho State in which Lao-Tze was archivist was the representative of the suzerain power in China, although in Lao-Tze’s time it had dwindled down to almost a nonentity. Still it had preserved many of the records of ancient times and was looked to by the surrounding states as the nominal source of their authority and power. Hence Confucius’s reputed visit to Lao-Tze. Your estimate of the influence of Confucius is, I regret to see, somewhat unfair to the Great Sage of China. His reputation doubtless suffers in Western estimation when compared to the original genius of his rival. Still I do not think he should be made responsible for the degeneracy (if any) of the race which he so manfully and perseveringly attempted to reform and educate, and which, it must be admitted, that but for him would long before now have disappeared from the ken of history.

As regards myself, I beg that you will kindly note that I have now been appointed sub-editor and translator to a new Chinese daily paper, the Thien Nan Shin Pao, to which all future communications to myself should, please, be made. The journal is intended to awaken the literary classes of China to a true appreciation of their position in the struggle now going on between Oriental and Occidental civilisation, and appreciating and relying on the vitality of our own race, we have every confidence that they will enthusiastically respond and work their own deliverance. I have no doubt that Occidentals, like Lord Salisbury, believe that they are a dying race. In a recent issue of the local Straits-Chinese Magazine I have given in English my own opinion as to the probable outcome of the present struggle in view of China’s past history, and as soon as the articles are completely issued I shall make bold to forward you a copy. Meanwhile I am sure you will generously give us your sympathetic support, and we shall be only too pleased to be privileged to translate and publish whatever views or advices you may wish to tender on the subject. The editors are a Chinese Provincial Graduate of Fukien, Mr. Khoo Seok Wan, and Dr. Lim Boon Keng, M. B. C. M. of Edinburgh, Chinese member of the Legislative Council of this colony.

SINGAPORE, June 6, 1898. TAN TEK SOON.

NOTES AND BOOK REVIEWS.

The Anglo-Saxon alliance is not a diplomatic treaty; nor should it be. It is the recognition of a deep-seated sympathy between two powerful nations, kin in blood, the same in language, similar in institutions, and cherishing peaceful ideals of civilisation. It is not in opposition to other nations, but simply indicates that the United States and Great Britain have become conscious of a solidarity of interests and would regard a war that unfortunately might break out between them as a civil war, deplorable under all conditions. The Anglo-Saxon alliance finally tends toward the establishment of a parliament of the world.

The article in the present Open Court on “Chinese Fiction,” by Dr. Candlin, is a unique contribution to literary criticism, and, we trust, will be cordially welcomed by our readers, to whom a favorable insight into the Chinese genius and character, not otherwise obtainable, will be afforded. Dr. Candlin, who is a Christian missionary, is now in Tong-shan, in the far North of China, which is at present greatly disturbed by revolutions. We regret that the proofs of the article, which were sent to Mr. Candlin several months ago, were unable to reach him.

We have learned with deep regret of the death of Dr. George Ebers, the well-known Egyptologist and novel-writer, at Munich recently. Dr. Ebers was a reader of The Open Court, and in his correspondence with the editor frequently expressed his sympathy with its aims.

Modern Rationalism, Being a Sketch of the Progress of the Rationalistic Spirit in the Nineteenth Century. By Joseph McCabe. (Watts & Co., London. Pp. 163. Price, 2s 6d.) Mr. McCabe has sought in this work to rewrite, from the point of view of rationalism, the history of modern human thought, considered in its most general aspects. He reviews the history of philosophy and the history of science in so far as these studies have influenced less tractable systems of social opinion; he traces the rise of rationalism and theology, the growth and extension of Biblical criticism, of comparative religion, mythology, etc. Rationalism, according to the author, is not a wholly modern movement, but is discoverable in every system of thought, ancient and modern, wherein the spirit of scepticism and criticism has shown itself. It is rather a "cast of thought" than an actual historical system. As such, and as the incarnation of the spirit of science, it is synonymous with the best-founded, most rigorously demonstrated, positive knowledge of every age. Mr. McCabe's book is readable, and the account of the many delicate controversies which it touches is fair and unimpassioned.

The August number of the Bibelot (Mr. Thomas B. Mosher, Portland, Me.) is made up of two poems of Mr. William Watson—Wordsworth's Grave and Lacryma Musarum. The September number will be The School of Giorgione, by Walter Pater. (Single numbers, 5 cents.)
Philosophical and Psychological Portrait Series.

Edited by

VICTORIA WOODHULL MARTIN and ZULA MAUD WOODHULL.

CHICAGO - - - BRENTANO'S.

NEW YORK - - - BRENTANO'S.

PARIS - - - GALIGNANI'S LIBRARY.

THE HUMANITARIAN is a monthly magazine devoted to the study of social and scientific questions from all points of view. It is the organ of no sect, clique, or party, but aims at getting the opinions of the best men and women on all subjects which affect the welfare of the race, and welcomes as fellow-workers all those who have the true interests of humanity at heart, without distinction of race or creed.

The HUMANITARIAN has won for itself a recognised position as the frank and fearless exponent of old truths and new ideas. The object of the magazine is to freely discuss all matters which concern the spiritual, mental and physical health of humanity.

The HUMANITARIAN does not dogmatise. We do not pretend to have final truths, we are seeking final truths. The last word has not been said on any branch of science. We are pilgrims in search of the Holy Grail, and in its quest we invoke the aid of all those who believe that the service of man is the service of God.

Intervention and the Recognition of Cuban Independence
By Professor AMOS S. HERSHEY, of the University of Indiana. 8vo, paper . . . . . . . . Price, 25c.
The author explains the right, according to international law, of the United States to intervene in Cuba, and the bearing the Monroe Doctrine has upon such intervention. In addition, he discusses intervention from the standpoint of humanity, and describes the horrors of Spanish misrule.

The Municipality and the Gas Supply as illustrated by the experience of Philadelphia
By Professor L. S. ROWE, Ph. D., of the University of Pennsylvania . . . . . . . . Price, 25c.
"From whatever point of view the change of policy in Philadelphia be examined, the conclusion that it marks a retrograde movement, is unavoidable. This is particularly true when it is looked at from the standpoint of civic progress. The recent history of American municipalities has shown that the inability of our city governments to maintain control over private corporations performing quasi-public functions constitutes the greatest danger to American local institutions. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that these corporations have succeeded in intrenching themselves as the real power behind the constituted authorities, in all matters affecting their interests."

HERTWIG'S GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF ZOOLOGY.
A fresh, interesting, easy book, suited to the general reader. 8vo. $1.60, net.

Prof. D. S. Kellicott, of Ohio State University, in Science: "Its clear, comprehensive, though brief, generalisations and discussions make it a useful handbook for teachers, students, and general readers who want to find and understand the latest position of the science."

AN ENTIRELY NEW EDITION, REVISED BY PROFESSOR FITZ, OF THE BRIEFER COURSE OF MARTIN'S "THE HUMAN BODY."
A new edition of the standard American physiology, which has been thoroughly revised by Prof. G. W. Fitz, of Harvard, and printed from entirely new plates. Special features are the expansion of the treatment of Foods and Digestion, and the addition of Emergencies, and a full Experimental Appendix. Many new illustrations are included. Professor Martin's style is easy and appeals at once to the general reader.

President Coulter, of Lake Forest University, Ill., on the old edition: "It is so simple, yet so trustworthy and scientific, that where the study of the human body is restricted to a short term, this is really the only book to be used that will in any way do justice to the subject."

MASON'S TELEPATHY AND THE SUBLIMINAL SELF.
Hypnotism, Automatism, Dreams, and Phantasms. By Dr. Osgood Mason. 343 pages. 12mo. $1.50.

Boston Transcript: "He repudiates the idea of the supernatural altogether, and in this he is in accord with the best thought of the day. . . . Interesting and logical."

PANCOAST'S AMERICAN LITERATURE.
A companion to his Introduction to English Literature. With 13 portraits. 16mo. $1.00, net.

The Outlook: "It combines with accuracy in fact and excellence of arrangement a literary quality which is rather unusual in works of this kind. . . . The individual criticisms on authors and books appear to us sound and well put; . . . the chapters are continuously interesting."

The book by Maria Efremova, Svetlana Yakovleva and Jane Henderson aims to serve as a short introduction to Russian contract law for a foreign lawyer. Assuming that the target readership are mainly English lawyers the book’s second aim, expressly stated by the authors (pp. i, 1), is to make lawyers from common law countries familiar with codified law, with Russian law being just an example. Find book reviews, essays, best-seller lists and news from The New York Times Book Review. Reviewing Julie Satow’s “The Plaza,” Tina Brown dishes on the socialites, tycoons and charlatans who made and lost fortunes and reputations at the storied hotel. By Tina Brown. Editors’ Choice. Photo. Credit. 9 New Books We Recommend This Week. Suggested reading from critics and editors at The New York Times. A book review is a summary of a book that you have read. You should review all aspects of the story. A book review is therefore written after reading (you may always order review at writing service without reading a book) because without reading the book it is difficult to figure out what it is all about and the review will, therefore not make sense. A wide reader will have an easy time in book review writing. This article highlights the guidelines for review writing. The notes written should be relevant and important. Ensure that you document the very important parts of the book such as the theme, characters and what the plot is. Make sure that the notes written are detailed to avoid referring to the book too much when making the draft copy. Establish what the major themes of the book are.
