The Importance Of Exams

by Rene Hollier

Many people have different views on taking the semester exam. Some people take them seriously and others don't. A lot of times the exams make up 10% of your grade or more. Many teachers feel that exams are important and can be a good way to check how much the students understand. Mike Moizer—"Yes, my life evolves around them."

Allan Stokel—"I believe that the Salem Senior High is full of education in its atmosphere. The grades are a reflection of the exams. With all due respect, I believe that the average will be at its highest. I believe that, no matter what, it's all up to you!"

Brian Hays—"They decide our future."

Jenny Cole—"Yes, they showed how much we have learned during the semester."

Julie Frentz—"Yes, they make up a lot of your grade."

I also asked some teachers their point of view on semester exams.

Mr. Ricker—"They are a good way to check how much the students understand."

Mr. Kreci—"No, those that have studied will get the same grades on the exam as they do on their tests."

The exams this semester will be on Jan. 18 and 19. The schedule for those two days will be:

- 8:30—10:00 1st period
- 10:45—12:00 2nd period
- 12:00—1:15 3rd period
- 1:15—2:00 4th period

The Quaker

It's Time or A Change

In November the Board of Education finalized plans for the renovation of Reilly Stadium to appear on the February ballot. This bond issue on the ballot is very important to the future of our city and school. The voters will hopefully be a fresh start for a new attitude towards our sports and education in its atmosphere. The High Marching Band who supports these teams. This plan will include a bandshell for storage and shelter. Even if you don't play these sports but do enjoy watching and supporting them, there is benefits in it for you. Reilly Stadium will be renovated instead of fiberglass seats, new restrooms instead of dark dungeons, and new concessions to add to your eating enjoyment. Even though the new wall surrounding the stadium will remain, there will be a new entrance. In all, I deeply feel this proposed plan for the renovation of Reilly Stadium will hold nothing but positive feelings and pride for our town. I think it's time for Salem to wake up and realize that it's time to prepare for the future, not to try to keep the past preserved. Change means growth and growth means strength for our town.

Important Issues Faced In The '80s

by Julie E. Hippoly

The eighties was a decade of many changes. There were issues that would forever change our world and forever change our lives for the better or for the worse. A lot of times the issues had to do with the African elephant and South Africa, the downfall of communism in Eastern Europe, the AIDS epidemic, and the abortion issue. A lot of these changes in our society have been thousands of people die from starvation and homelessness, and a disease that continually baffles scientists, AIDS. The Chinese students in Beijing marched in Tiananmen Square and went on a hunger strike so that they might see their government. The slaughter of elephants in Africa has become so ruthless, that in the dozen or so elephants that have been cut in half. It will continue to diminish over the next decade unless something is done. Millions of us witnessed as the Space Shuttle Challenger exploded on live television, and shocked the nation. The Volcano Mount St. Helens-continually protested through the decade over whether or not to be destroyed. The Exxon Valdez spilled an enormous amount of oil into the Prince William Sound, a great portion of which is now stranded in the Alaska's wildlife. The effects of this tragedy will carry well into the next decade. The East German government shocked the world by tearing down the Berlin Wall, and allowing East Germany to cross the border for the first time since World War II. Towards the end of the decade United States troops into Panama to capture Manuel Noriega and bring him back to the states to put him on trial for drug violations. In this decade we have seen many changes, some were good, and some were not. However, one thing is for certain, the nineties will not be boring.

What's up with Student Council

by Larry Zaggoli

Every issue, "The Quaker" updates what Student Council is planning on what they have already done.

But not very much is being planned this time around. Student Council arranged a Christmas basket and took it to a needy family at Christmas. Also, in February, the Kinship event will be held. No specific date has been set for this though. Council still has Teacher Appreciation Month each month.

Well, that's for now and next issue Student Council will be updated on their activities again.

Feeling Depressed? by Krista Blankenship

Here is that — January already! Time sure does fly when you’re having fun! Christmas (if you had any fun) is behind you? Remember Thanksgiving and all the good food you had? Some will say, what’s it all for? You’d look forward to that since July! But even better was the Christmas season! Anybody else enjoy the fun you had doing all that shopping? Wasn’t the mall just the way it used to be? You picked up your favorite Christmas tape and gave the cookiest cookies for Santa and your door. On Christmas Eve you read, “Twas the Night Before Christmas, sang Silent Night, and after tossing and turning for an hour, you finally drifted off to sleep. You arose on Christmas, bright-eyed and full of energy. You opened gifts, had a wonderful dinner, and visited with your friends, laughing, singing, and ringin the new year. You were having a great time and you couldn’t have ever that you’d be feeling so lousy today. POST-HOLIDAY DEPRESSION! But there are, you still finding yourself from your New Year’s happiness by January 1st. You smile and die, and you gain 10 pounds from all the holiday food and cookies. It snows 8 inches and you haven’t a thing to do. You just got back your credit card bills — you’ll have to pay them. It’s snowed 8 inches and you haven’t a thing to do. You just got back your credit card bills — you’ll have to pay them. It’s snowed 8 inches and you haven’t a thing to do. You just got back your credit card bills — you’ll have to pay them. It’s snowed 8 inches and you haven’t a thing to do.

During the Christmas season, we are so busy, we rarely notice the emotional condition we are in. But once it’s over, we wake up and realize the Christmas excitement is over, we are in the middle of the long and cold winter season. Add the dreary temperatures of winter to the loss of Christmas, and you are probably suffering from some POST-HOLIDAY DEPRESSION.

If all this talk about DEPRESSION is beginning to depress you, don’t despair! There are some measures you can take to prevent yourself from becoming a victim of POST-HOLIDAY DEPRESSION.

1. Keep busy after Christmas Activities can range from sled rides and snowball fights to a good winter activity. New would be a great time to start getting your body in top shape for the new year. Right around the corner, you know! Don’t procrastinate, or you’ll be far away. Optimism can help you stay free from DEPRESSION.

2. Although this is Christmas, it is past, remember that next year brings on another Christmas. Many believe that Noble deserved the championship because they played the hardest schedule in the history of collegiate football with a 12-1 record. It is a fact that they hardly beat Notre Dame on November 10-11. Miami finished 11-1. Even Florida State has some support for the championship. Florida State wins for the third time, but won ten in a row including a 20-10 victory over Notre Dame. The pollsters final ratings were: 1. Miami 2. Florida State 3. Notre Dame 4. Penn State. No. 1 Miami would have played Notre Dame this season, a few things to expect: 1. The 500th anniversary of Columbus’ landfall in the New World, 1992, as a result of his voyage. Expect Spain to sell replicas of the Nina, the Pinta, and the Santa Maria across the country. At least 250 events are planned celebrations with the biggest hoopla in Columbus Day on October 12.

2. In 1992, the following people will be celebrating their birthdays: Michael Jordan, 29; Muhammad Ali, 57; Garfield the Cat, 21; and George Bush, 57.

3. In this decade, we’ll mark the 50th anniversary of the Japanese invasion of Pearl Harbor (Dec. 7, 1941), the bicentennial of the U.S. (1776), the 50th anniversary of the Mexican Revolution (Nov. 20, 1910) and the 15th anniversary of Elvis Presley’s death (Aug. 16, 1962).

4. The USA has the World’s highest soccer match June in July 1994 — possibly the most-watched and most-anticipated sporting event in the world.

5. The European Community’s 12 nations plan to abolish national holidays. By 1992, the 15th anniversary of 1972 the Chinese flag will fly over Hong Kong starting July 1, 1997. The United States will lease the area.

6. Some agencies must conduct business using the same system on Oct. 1, 1992, if feasible.

Voices Make Or Break

by Shari Brown

On January 1, people make New Year’s resolutions, but on January 2, they break them. Why? People break them because they don’t believe they’ll stick to them. This is probably what all the students of whether they make or break their New Year’s resolutions, here’s what they said:

Tony Leo — “I don’t believe in them, or make them.”

Brian Otachovic — “No, I don’t make New Year’ resolutions.”

Margot Fink — “Yes, my boyfriend made my resolution for me.”

Betsy Con — “Yes, I make them, but I don’t follow through with them.”

Happy New Year!

Bunch Of Bowl?’

by Jason Shaw

College football, with the help of the pollsters, decided its national championship New Year’s Day after Miami defeated Alabama in the Sugar Bowl and Notre Dame beat Colorado in the Orange Bowl. Yet another Christmas. Many believe that Noble deserved the championship because they played the hardest schedule in the history of collegiate football with a 12-1 record. It is a fact that they hardly beat Notre Dame on November 10-11. Miami finished 11-1. Even Florida State has some support for the championship. Vocational Business Department

Given Recipe For Success

On Friday, December 15, 1989, the students of the Vocational Business Department gathered at Safari Hills Golf and Country Club for their annual Christmas luncheon. The theme for this year’s luncheon was “A Recipe For Success.” The favors given to each student and guest were miniature recipe books made to look like old-fashioned recipes in an ornamental recipe book. The recipe booklet, designed by the Administrative Assistant II class, included recipes for the cookies that completed the dessert table along with a “Recipe For Happiness.”

Following the delicious buffet luncheon, Mrs. Beth Fromm, assistant principal, announced the annual Outstanding Student Awards. The Miller’s Insurance Agency, addressed the present with their “Recipe For Success.” The awards are given to students who act professionally, use their knowledge and continue to gain more knowledge, and to treat co-workers and others as they would want to be treated. They also reminded the students to work efficiently and to work together. Some constructive criticism to their own advantage. The importance of being helpful, developing and using leadership qualities, being flexible, and willing to help build teamwork in the office was also stressed. She informed the students that they should treat their positions as if they were part owners of the business — if something needed to be done, and it was within their power, the individual should be willing to do whatever was needed to be accomplished. The goal as individuals, business careers, the students would be promoted to assist the ladder of success. Success does come to those who work hard. To conclude the meeting, door prizes were awarded. The meeting was organized by the following Administrative Assistant II, Objective; Kelly Corcoran, Kristin Miller, Stacie Copstick, Laura Davidson, Joyce Fitzpatrick, Angel Jennings, Sylvia Miano, and Stacy Stoddard, and Lisa Taylor.

In order to complete their holiday activities, the students in the Vocational Business Department A Live Deal pragram sponsored by the Salvation Army, the next departmental meeting will be held in May and will be hosted by the Administrative Assistant II students.
Teen Suicide: “How Will I Laugh Tomorrow When I Can’t Even Smile Today”
by Vanessa L. Siciliano

Everyone already knows that teens today face many problems. These problems cause depression, and depression can lead to thoughts about suicide. Being depressed creates a feeling of complete loneliness which can make teens think that dying is the only way out. Not many suicides are reported around our area but, that is not to say that many teens have considered it. There are many reasons that may lead to consideration of suicide. These reasons include:

- Breakup of a relationship
- Death of a loved one
- Loss of a close friend (or not having any friends)

Problems at home

Experiencing a breakup of a relationship is the most common reason leading to suicide of an adolescent. Changes in behavior usually involve a thought of suicide. Changes are such as sleeping, eating, giving away possessions. The emotional appearance may be wanting to be alone, taking dangerous chances. Suicide is on your mind and it seems there is no hope, talk to someone about your problems.

Facts on Suicide

- Suicide is the 2nd leading cause of death among adolescents and young adults.
- There are at least nine suicide attempts for each suicide completion.
- Three times as many women attempt suicide as men.
- Depression is the main clinical symptom that precedes suicide.
- Ninety-five percent of those who attempt suicide either do not want to die or are not sure. Part of them wants the emotional pain to cease, but part wants to live.

What’s Your Sign?
by Heather Dye

Horoscopes can be found in nearly every magazine and newspaper published today. Books are being sold that give people their horoscope for the whole year. Who’s to say if it’s real? Let’s look under a person’s sign and see if what it has to say. Let’s not turn into a seer and live by the horoscope, that’s crazy!

I have to admit that I was once a faithful horoscope reader. Everyday I would open the Salem News to the Astro-Graph and read under Pisces what it said. At times I would cut my horoscope out and keep it with me if I was going on a trip that would happen soon. I stopped when my horoscope promised “good things to come,” and everything from then on took a turn for the worse. Now I’m not saying that they aren’t fun to read once in a while, but to completely believe in them and live by them, that’s crazy! I think the reason most people believe that what their horoscope says will come true is because they give people hope of life being better. Take, for example, this horoscope: “There’s a possibility that something will develop today similar to a situation that worked out very well for you previously. The same procedure which you followed will serve your best interest now.” If someone believes the above, then it is no wonder that horoscopes are so popular. Some people use horoscopes as a form of astrology, which could help if they were successful. Another way horoscopes pull in people is by their vague wording. The example of this would be: “There is no reason today why you can’t be successful in a situation similar to one where you experienced victory in the past. What you did before you can do again.” Here we go again with the word situation. What kind of situation? Is it family, money, or a relationship? That thinking about suicide should be made clearer.

Keep in mind that it is interesting to look under a person’s sign and see what it has to say. Let’s not turn into mindless horoscope crazed people who live by the stars though.

Snow Days: What Is the Process?
by Keith Graham

Hundreds of kids go out looking hoping there will be no school the next day. A big reason for this is snow. As soon as the students see that it is snowing, their hopes are high that there will be no school. Snow is not the only thing that determines if we go to school. Dr. Schoffman, the Salem Police Dept., and Tuffy Sell (the Maintenance Manager) have a big part in this decision. They go out and patrol the roads. If the roads are too bad they make their decision by 6:15 am. Then Schoffman calls the radio stations if there is no school. Schoffman said, “Safety is a big factor in their decision.” Even though school is cancelled, the principal and superintendent have to give their offices anyway. Mr. McShane would like to congratulate the Township Committee and the City Street Dept., on the fine job they have been doing on the roads. So for all you students who are hoping for school to be let out remember snow is not the only thing that can affect whether school is cancelled or not.

How Was That Done?
by Rich Berg

In this issue of “The Quaker”, we staff introduce a new running column called How Was That Done. In this column we take odd and unusual events and ask the nagging question, “How was that done?” The events can pertain to national, state, and local subject matter. In this issue we ask the nagging questions:

Who discovered the town of Salem?

The history of Salem dates from the year 1830. Samuel Smith had, previous to this time, emigrated and settled on the section of which the southwest corner was marked by what is now the crossing of East and Ellisworth Streets. Samuel Davis settled on the land that is now nearly covered by a part of Salem, much of this he cleared and put into tillable land. So, this disproves the thought that Salem was established by the Quakers.

The Quakers Off To Best Start In Years!

by Jason Scott

The Quakers are off to one of their best starts in years. Their record so far this season is 8 and 2. The Quakers beat JFK 72 to 57 on Tuesday night for their 8th win.

This is Coach Spack’s 7th year as head coach and he thinks that this is one of his best teams. Salem’s only loss has come to Canfield. The main reason for those losses were a great amount of fouling by Salem. Girard attempted 38 foul shots during the entire game and you just can’t win when you send a team to the foul line that many times.

The Varsity team consists of seniors: Lance Miller, Dave Reed, Mark Busiter, Charlie Honeywell, and Shawn Binsley. Juniors on the varsity squad are Rob Belcher, Jeff Shirley, Eric Thorne and Chris Cochran. The only two sophomores on Varsity are Nick Schneider and Brian Petrucci. Petrucci is one of the younger sophomores players in the area.

The J.V. team consists of juniors Matt Schramm, and Dave Chuky.

The Quakers: How has the year gone so far?
Ziegel: It’s gone better than expected. The players are playing very hard and aggressive.

The Quakers: How do you think the team played this game? (Poland)?
Ziegel: They had a slow start but were able to do what they wanted to do.

The Quakers: Who’s your top defensive player?
Ziegel: Everyone. That players. You can’t name just one person.

The Quakers: What’s in store for the team with future games?
Ziegel: “We’ll be in the ball games and win our share.”

The Quakers: What are some of the team’s weaknesses?
Ziegel: “Our size and overall strength, although it has been overcome.”

The Quakers: Where do you think the team will be at the end of the season?
Ziegel: The team will play in the M.V.C. title game and a possible as a rundown of the last 7 games.

The coaches are: Beau Hendrickx, Shawn Saumweber, Ben Edgerton and Tom Wainwright. Andy McCracken and Jeff Andres are the assistant coaches.

Off season conditioning has started for all participating football players not involved in any other winter sports. About 25 players lift and get in shape for the upcoming football season above the gym in the weight rooms.

Coach Kinsler said, “We lift every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday and work on agility to get ready for the new season.”

With this winter conditioning, the football team can only improve.
