Creative people have a great deal of energy, both physical and mental. They can spend hours working on a single thing that holds their attention, yet seem to remain enthusiastic all the while. This doesn't mean that creative people are hyperactive or manic. They spend a great deal of time at rest, quietly thinking and reflecting on the things that hold their interest.

2. Creative People Are Smart, but Also Naive. Betsie Van der Meer/Stone/Getty Images. Creative people tend to be smart, but research has shown that having a very high IQ is not necessarily correlated with higher levels of creativity. Artistic, creative people can struggle to find careers that fit. When you're used to thinking out of the box it's easy to feel boxed in by traditional jobs. Good thing the world of work is broad enough to need your unique abilities. What follows are 10 types of creative jobs in which you can develop and amazing and rewarding career: Creativity and Business.
